

Sunita B. Nimavat

formerly a lecturer in English, now works with a group of young students for help to the needy and poor children through greeting card making. She has translated a number of short stories from Hindi and English into Gujarati and published them in prestigious journals. As a genuine lover of nature, she has trekked extensively in various regions of the Himalayas. She paints, sings and creates artifacts for self-pleasat and for charity.